MOORE'S GOGO SHAMPOO

WASH.

ITHE Bases of this compound is made of lippine Islands never use anything else for washing their hair; you never see them bald, and it is quite common to see the females with hair from 5 to 6 feet long. By using this SHAMPOO WASH as directed, you will surely arrest decaying hair, completely eradicate scurf, dandruff, and cure all dis-cases of the scalp; it does not contain any poisonous drugs, but, by its cooling proper-ties allays the itching and fever of the scalp.

Mr. Moore has succeeded in being abl to put this Wash up in bottles without allowing it to ferment, and he will guarantee it to keep any length of time in any climate.

Wirn the possibility, if not the probability, that this all-too prevalent summer form of cholerate diarrhos may spread, and with the knowledge that if it does it may prove to be the forerunner of a serious spidemic the question naturally arises, Where is the Sanitary Board? The fact that the Per Ningpo, at 3.30 p.m., on Saturday, Public Health Bill was sprung so thoughtlessly (or so carefully) upon the community The O. S. S. Co. s steamship Palinurus, must be held accountable for this as well as other inconveniences. There is at present no Sanitary Board : the old one is defunct, and the new one takes a most unconscionable time in coming into life. Already we have complained of the delay The Canadian Pacific Line steamer Abysin the nomination of four members by the Governor, and of the diplomatic move adopted to obtain the ratepayers' decision before the other two English members were nominated by His Excellency. It is just | terday at 5 p.m. for this port, and may be possible that the delay is partially explainable on the ground that difficulty is being experienced by the Governor in obtaining leading Chinese to accept a position on the Board. But whatever may be the delay, it is a serious matter that no Board Health sceps to exist, although a majority of the members have been selected. This WE are glad to observe that some steps are one which could have been at once taken late our streams, as there is very great up this question; but it must be remem- which people drew water for domestic use, absolutely certain that Dr Cantlie will sit if the practice is continued. on the Board of Sanitary Reform. salaries are put) and vote as they are told to do by the Government? This is a point which must be considered, otherwise the Board will never command the confidence of the community, and if the Board fails in that, it might as well be non-existent. If we can fairly compare the Municipal Councils of the Straits with the Sanitary Board, we say that each member of the Board ought Goods per Choysang undelivered after to be allowed to form his own ppinion, and have his vote recorded in accordance with that opinion. One President of the Singapore Municipal Council voted against the Government on some point that was raised, and as he was an official he was called upon to explain his reasons. This independent official offered to resign his honorary position as President of the Municipality at once, stating that, unless he was a lowed to vote there according to his own views, he did not desire to keep his seat. Are there any officials of this stamp here? and, if there 10 a m .- Tenders for Naval Contracts, are, how would they be dealt with? Let the course which is to be pursued be clearly understood from the outset, and then the Goods per Sachsen undelivered after members of the Board both official, and unofficial, will know what to do. That there will and must be points raised that will reveal great divergences of opinion, goes without saying. Will the official members be under orders The usefulness of the Board will be immeasurably lessened if they are to be tied down; but are the official members to be free? That is the question which ought to be answered. ..

As interesting Life of the Emperor Fre-Simon, the editor of the Memorial Diplomatique. A German by birth, M. Edouard Simon has lived in France for unwards of thirty years, and is well qualified for the task he has undertaken. Some of the incidents in the early life of the Emperor which he relates are of the highest interest. and especially his account of the visit of the than Prince Frederick William to the Court of the Tuilories shortly before his marriage with the Princess Royal of England. The impression he created is well described in a letter from the Empress Eugenie now published for the first time. Her Majesty wrote :- The Prince is a tall. fine-looking young man, nearly a head tallor than the Emperor, very fair, with a straw-coloured moustache-a very German of Germans, as Tacitus describes them. His courtesy is exquisitely chivalrous, and there is something about him that makes one think of Hamlet. He is accompanied by a cortain General Moltke, or some such name, a gentleman who is Ivery sparing of his words. but not by any means a dreamer. now and then he comes out with the most striking remarks. These Germans are a most imposing race. Louis says they are the race of the future.

THE STORM.

At six o'clock last night De Doberck hoisted the South cone, indicating that the storm or typhoon was to the South of the Colony. At 2 a.m. this morning he hoisted the West cone, indicating that the storm had moved somewhere to the West of the Colony. We may therefore suppose that it has passed by Hongkong.

This afternoon we were favoured with a copy of the following telegram received by the Spanish Consul from the Director of the Manila Observatory :-

Dr Ayres, on the question being put to him, said he attributed the outbreak cholera to the unusual wet weather and cold nights, which had been phenomenal this year in the month of Juna. The Gael water was brought by pipes from the tank at Glenealy Ravine. There was reason to think that the water might be polluted, and a policeman had been put on guard over the tank night and day. Mr Crow had received a complaint that the coolies were emptying the night-soil buckets up there. This was quite possible, as there was no protection to the tank. The polintion, however, could not be for any length of time, as the water. was continually coming in and going out A great many people on the Caine Road sent for their water to the Ravine as it was clearest. THE NATIONAL DEFENCES.

The following are some extracts from the recent discussion that took place in the House of Lords with regard to the defences of the Empire, taken from the Standard brought on by the German mail to-day :-The Duke of Cambridge, in reply to Viscount Hardinge, said .- I rejoice that my noble friend the noble Viscount has put to me this question . I do not suppose that any one in this House, or any one elsewhere, could have been more astonished Telegraph this morning, I observed this extraordinary and sensational article. I asked myself, how is it possible snything could have emanated from me to call for statements so wonderful; sensational, and extraordinary. I have inquired what it all meant, and I have reason to believe that the highest military authority, who, I admit, that up to this moment I believed myself was, is intended for someone else (laughter). Of course on that I can give no opinion, but, so far as I am concerned I cannot imagine that such sensational remarks upon so important a subject should have been ascribed to me by any one. The question referred to in the article has been a good deal before the public, and I have given very decided evidence before a Committee in another place on the general condition of things connected with the Army. To those statements I adhere but I do not bolieve that my noble friend or your Lordships, would expect me to go into any details at the present time. I wil say only this that the circumstances are such that these questions are well worthy of the fullest and most anxious considerstion of the Government, of this House, and of the country, but as to any probable or imminent danger, or anything of that sort I, for my part, cannot be any party to any such words. I believe that the Government are as fully alive as myself to the importance of the frestion. I have not the alightest doubt that my right hon, friend the Secretary of State and the members of the Cabinet are considering all the evid ence that has been brought before the various Committees now sitting; and I have not the alightest doubt, too, that the result of their consideration will be satisfactory to the country and agreeable to those who. It arose out of the case Lucas v. Demee. like myself, take a warm interest in the navel and military position of this country

This is a very grave and important matter, and once more I absolutely and entirely repudiate the sensational article referred to The Marquess of Salisbury-I am sur your Lordships will have heard with great satisfaction from the illustrious Duke his statement of his opinions on this important question (hear, hear.) I can only say I am glad to find that the highest military authority is not the illustrious Duke, as should have imagined it was, and that some lower military authority has furnished thi very startling and sensational statement (hear, hear). But I do not wish to pass this matter by without making something like a protest against the unpression which seems to prevail that because her Majesty Government do not talle on that matter because they do not make in public shows speeches—therefors their deep anxiety and vigilance are not directed to this question (hear, hear). It has been the subject of our auxious thought, and is still the subject of our anxious thought; but it is a matter in regard to which, from the very nature of it, we cannot do otherwise than practise the utmost reticence, and reserve (hear, hear) If such things existed as Secret Committees should have had no objection to lay before the Secret Committee everything we know and are doing on the subject, but proceeding in Secret Committee is not our habit, an everybody must see that nothing could be more insage than to explain to all the world what our strength is and what our weakness is. what is the nature of the pri cautions, and what are the subjects which are altracting our vigilance. It would be absolutely not only insane, but treacherous to submit such matters to a publicity which includes not our own subjects but all the nations of the world (hear, hear). I rise therefore, to say these few words of protes against the tone of panic which is adopted and the language which is used, as thoug the Government were passing by all these matters in utter apathy, which in the pre sent state of the world would be a very grave dereliction of duty (hear, hear). is astisfactory to think we are increasing our precautions. nouse of Londs, May 15.

The House of Lords was densely crowde last night. The side galleries were filled by Peeresses, the foot of the Throne was thronged with Privy Councillors and others. among whom were Mr. Gladstone. Lord Randolph Churchill, Sir R. Peel, and Mr E. Stanbope. The Commons' Callery and the space at the bar were both overflowing with members from the Lower House. Lord Wolseley, in replying to the remarks made by Lord Salisbury on Friday evening, in the course of the discussion on a paragraph in one of the morning newspapers on the state of the national defence, said that until he read a report of the Debate he had not been aware of the existence even of the paragraph in question. He thought the noble Lord could hardly have road the speech which formed the basis of his comments, as its object was not to attack the Government, but to point out the disadvantageous manner in which Party Gote could not honestly attack the present Ceylon exchanges:-Government for noglecting the interests of the Army and Navy, as no one knew better than he did what the present Secretary of State had done or was doing to render the military forces of the Ozowa officient. His object in making the speech in question was to direct public opinion to the necessity of strengthening the Army, as he knew that, unless something was done, the Secretary of State would never be able to obtain the necessary funds. The pub were unaware that the Army was 23,000 less than in 1860, and 7000 less than in 1864. There was nothing in his speech at Sir J. Pender's dinner which he had not stated in his evidence before the Roya Commission. In conclusion he said :- My statement is as follows .- That as long as the Navy is as weak as it is at this moment her Majesty's Army cannot hold its own all over the world, dispersed as it is a that our defences at home and abroad are at this moment in an unsatisfactory condition, and that our military forces are not organised or equipped as they should be to guarantee even the safety of the capital in which we are at this present moment (hear), I am well aware of the responsibility I incur in patriotism they have exhibited, but in the because the army she will have on the making the statement, but I feel there is no need for panio. I am not in the secrets. of her Majesty's Government, but I appeal to renson when I say, that there is no prominent danger pending over this country, and that there is plenty of time to do all that is necessary to place at least the Arms in a state of efficiency before its services are required (hear, hear). Panic is the offspring of ignorance. For the people to reaise their danger and the power of meeting it the Italian authorities. is, in my opinion, the first step towards doing all that is required (hear, hear). For that reason, it has been my desire at all times to take the English people into our confidence and tell them exactly what the condition o her Majesty's Army and Navy is; and what is the proportionate strength of our Navi compared with the navies of foreign countries. If there are wants and shortcomings should like to tell them what they are (hear, hear). So complete is my confidence in the wisdom of Parliament and in the good sound sense of the English people that cannot believe anything will be wanting in the efforts to place the two great services of the country in a throughly satisfactory and serviceable condition. If, my Lords by any action I have taken in this matter have done enything to further that end. it will be, in my estimation, a most important event in my life, and one I shall klways look back to with the greatest possible satisfac tion (hear, hear). My Lords, I am well aware that in political life it is the common practice that when a member of an Admin. intration differs seriously from his collect I have taken them over governl years, so gues, or has been consured severely by his that there shall be no question of Party in | chief in the Administration, it has been the the matter, and no distinction between our inversable practice for that member of the selves and our pridecessors. I wish to call Government to resign the position he occupies; but, in my opinion, a subordinate military officer who occupies no political position whatever under the Government takes a wrong view of his posttion when he follows that example. As a rule, the resignation of a military officer mowers no good purpose. I have been, I confess, at times sorely tempted to adopt that course myself, and never more se than I was last Saturday morning when I read the severe strictures made upon me is this House by the Prime Minister. PUBLISHED BI-MONTHLY, TENTH YEAR.

THIS Review, which was intended to meet the wants of many students of Chinese caused by the discontinuance of Notes and Queries on China and Japan, has reached its Fourteenth Volume. The Review discusses these topics which are uppermost in the minds of students of the 'Far East' and about which every intelligent person connected with China or Japan is desirous of acquiring trustworthy information. It includes many interesting Notes and original Papers on the Arts, Sciences, Ethnology, Folklore, Geography, History, Literature, Mythology, Natural History, Antiquities, and Social Manners and Quetoms, etc., etc., of China, Japan, Mongolia, Tibet, and the Far East generally. Recently a new departure has been taken, and the Review now gives papers on Trade, Commerce, and Descriptive notes of Travel by well-known writers. It was thought that by extending the scope of the Review in this direction, the Magazine would be mademore generally

The Review department receives special attention, and endeavours are made to present a careful and concise record of Literature on Ohina etc., and to giv critiques embodying sketches of the Most recent works on such topics. Authors and Publishers are requested to forward works to Editor, China Review, care of China

The Notes and Queries are till continue and form an important means of obtaining from and diffusing among students knowledge on obscure points. The Correspondents' column also affords farther and greater facilities for the interchange of views and discussion of various Original contributions in Chinese, Latin or any of the Modern Languages are re ceived. The papers are contributed by the members of the various Consular, the Imperial Customs, and Hongkong Services, and also by the Missionary bodies amongs whom a high degree of Chinese scholarshi is assidnously cultivated. Amongst the regular contributors are Drs. Chalmers, Eitel, Bretschneider, and Hirth, Professo Legge, and Mesers Balfour, Wattors, Stont Phillips, MacIntyre, Groot, Jamieson Faber, Kopsch. Parker, Playfair, Giles Piton, and Taylor, -all well-known names indicative of sound scholarship and thorough unstery of their subject.

The Subscription is fixed at $6,00 pe annum, postage included - payable in ad Orders for binding volumes will b promptly attended to; Address Mans gor, China Mail Office.

'All our learned societies should sul scribe to this scholarly and enterprising Re view.'-Northern Christian Advocate (U.S.) 'The China Meview * * * * lian an ex cellent table of contents.'-Celestial Empire

'The Publication always contains subject of interest to sojourners in the Far East and the present issue will hold favourable if no advantageous comparison, with proceding numbers. - Celestia Emmire.

This number contains several articles of interest and value. '-North-China Herald. The Uhina Review for September-October Tarhpaca....... 3 c Kennett Brit. bqe. fully maintains the high standard excellence which characterises that publitation, and altogether forms a very interesting and readable number. Mereorologists will find an interesting and valuable contribution by Dr. Fritsche, on "the Amount of Precipitation (Rain and Snow) of Peking," showing the results of observations made at the Imperial Rus-11 Observatory at Peking, from 1841 to 1880. "Notes on the Dutch Occupation of Formosa," by Mr. Geo. Phillips, contains some interesting information, although much of it is second-hand. The Notices of New Books include a most generous and appreciative review of "The Divine Classic of Nan-Hua," and the Notes and Queries are as usual very interesting. -- North-China Daily News. A substantial and reliable Review which all students of China and the Chinese would do well to patronise.'-- Chrysauthemum. 'The November-December number of the China Review contains less variety than usual, but the few articles are very interesting. The opening paper by Mr Herbert. A. Giles on "The New Testament in Chi-sarily be of great importance in the eyes of all missionaries. . . Mr E. H. Parker's "Short Journeys in Szechuen" are continued, and a goodly instalment of these travels in the interior of China is given. Mr F. H. Balfour contributes a paper of some length entitled "The Emperor Cheng, founder of the Chinese Empire," which will be read with genuine interest by students of Chinese history. A few short notices of New Books and a number of Notes and Queries, one of which "On Chinese Oaths in Western Borneo and Java" might appropriately have been placed under a separate heading, complete the number.'-H.K. Daily Press.

Trubner's Oriental Record contains the following notice of the China Review:-The present publication, judging by the number now before us, is intended to occupy a position, as regards China and the neighbouring countries, some what similar to that which has been filled in India by the Calcutta Review. The great Regree of attention that has been bestowed of late years upon the investigation of Chinese literature, antiquities, and social developments, to say nothing of linguistic studies, has led to the accumulation of important stores of inform ation, rendering some such channel of pul licity as is now provided extremely desir able; and contributions of much interes may fairly be looked or from the member of the foreign consular services, the Chines Oustoms' corps, and the missionary body among whom a high degree of Chines scholarship is now assiduously cultivated and who are severally represented in the first number of the Review by papers highl creditable to their respective authors . . Some translations from Chinese novels an plays are marked by both accuracy and fresh ness of style; and an account of the career the Chinese post-statesman of the elevent century, Su Tung-p'o, by Mr. E. C. Bowrs is not only historically valuable, but is als distinguished by its literary grace. Besid notices of new books relating to China an the East, which will be a useful feature the Review, if carried out with punctualit and detail, we are glad to notice the 'Notes and Queries are destined find a place in its pages also. It is to hoped that this opening for contribution on Chinese subjects may evoke a simila degree of literary zeal to that which we displayed during the lifetime of its pred cessor in the field, and that the China Revie may receive the support necessary to insu-
